Helicopter Charter Company Presents The Atlas Advantage

Atlas Helicopters, the helicopter charter company, is pioneering a new approach to helicopter charter with a unique scheme designed to give frequent flyers guaranteed availability. The Atlas Advantage blocks out flying hours for card holders, giving businesses and their executives the convenience of having a helicopter on standby without the associated costs of owning a corporate aircraft.

Making light work of travel budgets and removing the hassle of constantly reserving a chartered flight, the Atlas Helicopter Advantage fleet is on standby throughout the year. Pre-booked hours can be used whenever needed, delivering travellers to last minute meetings and regular commitments with scheduled ease.

Atlas Helicopters' director Mike Burns said, "These days we buy most things in bulk – from groceries at the supermarket to supplies for the office so we decided to bring that same ease of use to our corporate helicopter charter service. Atlas Advantage was created to give our regular flyers the best possible access to our fleet with guaranteed availability and pre-paid flying hours removing the need for paperwork and reservations. Those with regular commitments and those who are required to travel a lot for business have found it to be a real time saver."

Launched this summer, the Atlas Advantage has been warmly received with members scrambling to book out air time for future use. Regular helicopter charter clients are guaranteed a helicopter for their journey provided that a minimum advance notice is given. With departure points throughout the South and South East, departure points are readily accessible and complimented by an extensive network of helicopter landing sites.
